

I have almost twenty years of experience of both teaching and senior leadership roles in the early years and primary phases. I am currently the Headteacher of a single form entry Church of England primary school, a post that I have held for nine years. Before that I was a Deputy Headteacher working in a primary school in Bath having come from an Acting Deputy Headship of a new primary school following the amalgamation of an infant and a junior school in South Gloucestershire. In all, I have 15 years of senior leadership experience across the three schools. I am a lead and team Ofsted inspector and regularly undertake Section 5 inspections in the early years and primary phases. I was accredited as a Local Leader of Education in 2011 and since then have had the privilege of working alongside colleagues as their schools journeyed out of special measures and from requires improvement to good. I have also supported colleagues new to Headship as a Professional Partner. My key areas of interest are teaching and learning, curriculum, school improvement and leadership and management. I am also an education consultant and in this role have worked across the south west supporting school improvement.
