Positive behaviour management

Thursday,
February 6th

9.30am to 12.30pm

£50

Led by
Sue Cowley

Fosse Way School,
Longfellow Road,
Radstock BA3 3AL

Sue uses a combination of training slides, practical demonstrations and group activities to help staff examine, develop and improve their behaviour management skills.

As well as being thought provoking, this course is a great deal of fun, and should really reinvigorate and inspire staff.

It not only tells your staff about the best approaches, but shows them as well, as Sue immerses them in a high quality training experience.

The course will include:

- Achieving clarity about expectations
Effective verbal and non-verbal communication
- The importance of consistency
- The use of intrinsic and extrinsic motivators
- Strategies for building relationships
- Strategies for engaging your learners
- The importance of routines
- Using the language of choice

- Creative and inclusive approaches to planning

Sue Cowley is a writer, presenter, teacher educator and author of 30 books on education. Her international bestseller Getting the Buggers to Behave has been translated into 10 languages and is a set text at many universities.
