Monday, September 27th—9.15am to noon

Pupils on the autism spectrum often find the social aspect of the school day quite challenging.

This includes what to do at unstructured times as well as coping with general social interactions during the day.

This course will cover :

- How to develop friendship skills.

- How to develop social understanding.

With a focus on strategies and resources to support pupils aged eight to 16.

Intended audience: teachers, teaching assistants and lunchtime supervisors.
